BETH'S BACK

That a more appropriate title for this week's column would be "It's being 'told in Trona,' or 'barred in Barstow.'" When the opportunity arose almost a month ago for us to visit California's most wasted of "wastelands," we were glad of the opportunity. Having lived for two and one-half years in Bakersfield, at the outbreak of the war, we have always averred we "loved the heat and the desert," and wanted to put our avowal to the acid test.

We were not disappointed. The vast expanses of sand and rock and blue sky still hold us in a fascinating grip. This is made the more potent by the knowledge we have through books and stories told by word of mouth of the unbelievable treachery the desert has displayed toward humans during the past century who have tried to penetrate her vastness for good and evil purposes. Nothing has changed in this respect during the last hundred years, and the wilderness is as much a power to be reckoned with today as it was when the west was being invaded for the first time.

Trona is a company town, controlled by the American Potash and Chemical company. The soil is alkali so that not even grass will grow, and the trees are of a type imported from other arid countries to provide what growth there is out-of-doors. It is from the lake that the company derives its source of valuable minerals — potash, soda-ash, and a long list of others. There are small quantities of gold and silver, too, but not in large enough amounts to make bringing them out worth-while.

We had the doubtful honor of witnessing the worst fire in the history of the town. A dormitory-type building caught fire and was ablaze in a matter of minutes. It burned from five o'clock in the afternoon, smoldering the next afternoon.

The building was being renovated to serve as a men's dormitory but at the moment housed only the beauty shop, from which two women operators and their patrons escaped. At one time approximately 60 women were residents in the hall.

Officials of the company strive constantly to make living pleasant for employees. Families are provided with nice homes; there is an outdoor theater where you may gaze into the sky if Indians approach from the rear in the western film we are witnessing in numbers quite obviously in excess to the rate our little band of valiant heroes is brushing them off; a well-planned athletic program, and what we were told is the largest swimming pool in California, a statement which we have no reason to doubt.

It was one of the most spectacular blazes we can remember having seen, and only a kind providence kept the whole town from being destroyed, since the day was unusually still, with only a slight wind blowing. Water is precious in this country, and the fire mains are served with brine water from the so-called lake.

In Barstow, we caught up with a friend of ours whom we hadn't seen since grammar school days. She was formerly a teacher in the elementary school, but has her time fully occupied now with a husband and family of two boys and two girls. Their home is built on a hill overlooking the business district that is truly "built on a rock." Engineers scaled the hill to its present low height and in doing so reached a layer of solid rock. It took two men two days to whittle out a presentable drive to the garage, which is just a little over the length of the car. This condition is cause for real concern as far as sanitation problems go, because a septic tank cannot be sunk deep enough to be adequate.

Barstow is located deep in the heart of a section of country that reeks with the history of former adventures during the rush of miners to obtain precious metal. Today it is a bustling, progressive community, fortunate in having Santa Fe's diesel shops and the marine base located there.

We talked with the original "Dusty" Rhoads, he of baseball fame, who made the title famous. "Dusty" writes a column for the local newspaper which is read religiously by fans.

On the return trip home in an air-conditioned bus — the first we had experienced in miles and days of riding — our seat-mate was a rather older man, who we learned, was from Miami, Florida. No appreciable amount of conversation passed between us until we left San Bernardino. We did manage forty winks, but our friend's infatuation with California was so voluble and obvious that we gave ourselves over finally to sort of a one-man information bureau, imparting what little knowledge we had available of the locale, its climate and products.

We can best describe his enthusiasm by leaving to your imagination a sound every few moments which would appear in print something like this "m-m-

SEPTEMBER 12 IS SET AS CYPRESS SCHOOL OPENING

Opening day of the Cypress elementary school will be Monday, September 12, it was revealed yesterday by Miss Elizabeth Dickerson, superintendent.

Some of the classes will be operated in two shifts, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Division of students will be determined alphabetically, except in cases where the child's health necessitates an adjustment or other legitimate reasons. One other exception to the alphabetical division is the kindergarten.

Miss Dickerson gave the times of the two periods as 8:20 a.m. until noon for the morning session, and 12:20 p.m. until 4 p.m. for the afternoon classes.

Only grades up to, and including, the third will have separate rooms. From the fourth grade on, the full day's schedule will be followed. It begins at 9 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

Since an extra bus has been acquired, the children who live in the north and south areas of Cypress will not be forced to attend school at different times as has been the case before. Pupils from both areas will be picked up for each session.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT DOWNTOWN CORNER; NO SERIOUS INJURIES

Four Long Beach residents were involved in an accident at the corner of Lincoln avenue and Walker street Saturday evening. An elderly couple, G. C. Leverson, 79, and his wife, Laura, 80, were taken to a Long Beach hospital for minor injuries and shock.

Both cars were traveling on Lincoln avenue and the accident resulted when one stopped for the Walker stop sign, and the car following failed to see the marker, running into the first car.

m-MMMH." Speaking with a slightly foreign accent, the sound and the words fascinating, interesting, and amazing tumbled from his lips with regularity and succession.

He thanked us at the end of the journey for making the ride more pleasant, and we were glad for his apparent delight and devotion to his surroundings. It helped to condition us for a return to Orange county — and home — which is the best place, after all.

Decide Cypress Malady Merely Coincidence

Special — In an exclusive telephone call with Dr. R. C. Leer, county health officer in charge of investigating the mysterious disease which has afflicted five Cypress residents, the Enterprise learned yesterday that county officials have decided, "It is a coincidental group of similar cases and nothing has been found to indicate a common cause."

This statement was made by Dr. Leer, and he added that the county officers are extremely interested in the cases and are still investigating possibilities.

Blood Tests Negative
Blood tests of the patients were sent in to the Berkeley Laboratory of the state health department for analysis, and the results were negative. This fact, combined with other extensive research of the patients' habits and symptoms, lead the doctors to their conclusion of no connection between cases.

Other Possibility
Dr. Leer added, "There may be a possibility that it is caused by an unidentified virus, but there is no proof of it."
No new cases have been reported for several weeks.

FRED HUTCHINGS BUYS 5-ACRE PRESTON TRACT

A real estate deal of considerable size was concluded this week when Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutchings purchased the attractive five acre orange grove situated at the corner of Lincoln ave. and Holden rd., from Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Preston.

This grove will be operated as a unit of the other Hutchings' holdings across the street.

The deal was made through the real estate firm of Sterns & Foote. Mr. and Mrs. Preston will move to the new home they have built on Grand ave.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF CYPRESS COUPLE WEDS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Colvin of Cypress, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Arnold, attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Earleen Colvin to Lewis Ball August 14 in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in Redondo Beach.

Ronnie Colvin, brother of the bride, sang "God Bless This House" and "Because."
Mrs. Earl Grebeau, formerly of Anaheim, was matron of honor. The bride is Past Honored Queen of Jobs Daughters of Redondo.

It was a double ring ceremony and a reception was held in the church parlor following the rites.

Forty-one NAZARENES GO TO PASADENA CAMP

Forty-one members of the Cypress Church of the Nazarene attended the Nazarene camp meeting at Pasadena Sunday, according to the Rev. W. D. Howard.

Their new bus will be put to the same use next Sunday when they go to the camp again.

CYPRESS ANIMAL WORLD INCREASES THIS WEEK

Cypress was short on human births this week, but the animal world increased by leaps and bounds. Two productive sows, owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. G. Kreissler, 8212 south Gay street, turned out a total of 22 pigs last week, "Petunia" and "The Duchess" were the mothers, each having 11 little ones. "The Duchess," however, thoughtlessly killed two of her offspring by stepping on them.

Last Sunday was a big day in the life of Sam Rosen's Palamino horse family. One of his mares gave birth to a ?? pound ?? ounce colt. Other statistics are not available, but it is known that the young 'un's name will be "Sunday."

Steps Taken To Repaint Stop Signs On Lincoln

Since many cars have been going through the stop signs at the corner of Lincoln avenue and Walker street, Cypress residents have been complaining that action should be taken to have the signs repainted.

A committee from the Cypress chamber of commerce reported the situation to the county several weeks ago, but no action could be taken by the board until their regular meeting this week. From previous experience, it has been found that it is not long after the board has recognized a situation such as the one in Cypress, that the work is done. So the signs should be repainted within a few days.

CYPRESS V.F.W. HONORED AT LAGUNA CONCLAVE

For reporting 100 per cent paid-up membership during the past year, the Cypress VFW post no. 9847 was honored Sunday at the Second District meeting of the VFW at Laguna Beach.

Representing Cypress at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Demiris, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Begley, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. G. Kreissler and Mrs. M. R. Bouse.

Dance Saturday In Fire Hall

Instead of waiting a month, as has been the custom in the past, the Cypress volunteer firemen are staging another dance tomorrow night in the Cypress fire hall.

Beginning at 8 p.m., the affair will feature the same orchestra that has played for all the previous ones, and coffee will be served to the dancers all evening.

AIR BASE GRADUATES CLASS OF 199 MEN

One hundred and ninety nine select seaman recruits graduated Thursday from Los Alamitos Naval air station, after taking an eight week training course for the summer months. The training program was especially designed for teen-agers with no previous military service. All are high school and junior college students from southland towns and cities. Eleven hundred parents and friends were the guests of the proud recruits at the colorful graduation ceremony.

Los Alamitos Will Donate Festival Profits To Fund

Profits of the Los Alamitos fall festival this year will go into a building fund for the Grace Johnson Youth Center. The celebration has been set for September 9, 10 and 11.

Instead of following the practice of last year where all organizations kept the profits from their booths, the money will go into the fund this year.

The celebration is under the direction of the Business Association.

Committees in charge of various parts of the fair are August Labourette and Frank J. Watte, rides; Jack Baird, Cleo DeWitt, R. S. Radford and Coy Long, advertising; Eme Otte and Frank Watte, donations for auction; Maurice Pirot, Roy Wright and William Poe, Jr., carnival.

SEVENTH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED BY KATHRIN CLARK

Merchants Split In First Games Of Championship Play - Off Series

After losing a ragged 14 to 11 opener to All-American Market of Downey, the Cypress Merchants retaliated Wednesday evening and trimmed their opponents 6 to 2.

The two teams will meet again tonight at 8 on the Norwalk diamond in the third tilt of a 3 out of 5 game play-off for the championship of the NSA league.

First Game A Rout
The initial inning of the Monday night game ended with Cypress behind 2 to 1, followed by two innings of tight, scoreless ball. At that point, however, the jitters began to affect both pitchers and it was a free-for-all ball game.

Cypress scored five runs in the fourth, taking the lead 6 to 2. Downey pitcher Bill Spinks walked several men and hits counted other runs.

In Downey's half of the fifth, Cypress lost its touch. A combination of errors, hits and walks resulted in ten runs for All-American and the score rose to 12-6.

A desperate rally by Cypress in the sixth included a home run by "Salty" Falls, but even his valiant efforts left the Cypress one run behind at the end of the stanza. The game ended after a brief flurry of two more scores by All-American Market bringing the count to 14-11.

Cypress Comes Back
Behind the brilliant pitching of Eddie Arbiso Wednesday, it was a different story.

He held the Downey outfit scoreless until there were two out in the final inning and a fielder's miscue by Cypress resulted in a home run for All-American.

Cypress started out with three runs in the first, and added another in the third.

With the score staying at 4-0 going into the sixth, Merchant catcher, pounced out what looked like a home run. The umpire called it a two-bagger, however, as it went into the bushes. Gulman bunted successfully, but Borgess was put out at a play at home plate.

With Gulman on, Arbiso helped win his own game by rapping out a four-bagger for the final Cypress score.

There will be a game tonight, then more tilts Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, depending on whether either team wins the required three.

Attendance At Playground Was High In Cypress

Being tried for the first time this year, use of the Cypress school grounds for a summer playground has proved highly successful. Play and craft work have been supervised by W. Visel, who will teach here this coming school year.

Open for recreational use from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays through July and August, playground facilities were extended during the vacation period.

Playground supervision, equipment and workshop materials including plywood, paint, raffia, sheet copper and tools were made available by action of the school board and Miss Elizabeth Dickerson, district superintendent.

Learn Skills
Early in the summer children commenced craft work with sheet copper. Their "tools" for this work consisted of a large nail and a popsicle stick. After originating the design, it was worked out in relief on the copper.

Scrap plywood was cut into suitable sizes for leather-hinged books. They were sanded smooth and shellacked. The copper designs were applied to the book covers with brass escutcheon pins to make attractive gifts or "visitor" records. Other projects included bird houses, a tool box, book shelves, and various raffia weaving.

Mothers Help
Headed by Mrs. Julia Bouse, a committee of mothers in the community assisted each day with supervision of the youngest children and helped the craft workers. Those helping were Mrs. Albert Schmitt, Mrs. Elena Decker, Mrs. Darlene Greenwade and Mrs. Joe Bailey.

VONNIE LANE FIRE DOES LITTLE DAMAGE

The Cypress volunteer fire department was relieved of their general run of summer grass fires Wednesday when they were called to a fire in the A. H. Sanborn home at 5681 Vonnies Lane. Little damage was done by the blaze, which was started by a cigarette. A pillow and mattress were the only losses. The Sanborns moved into their present home about a week ago.

Accept Only NSLI Forms Offered By Cypress VFW Post

A warning from the Veterans administration headquarters warns former GI's to accept only the official government National service life insurance dividend refund forms from the locally authorized organization.

In Cypress, this authorization was given to the VFW post no. 9847.

The warning reads, "... alleged application blanks may be offered before the legal issuance date. Only official forms made by the government printing office will be accepted by the VA, and those forms will be distributed by VA offices, post offices and veterans' service organizations."

Members of the Cypress VFW Auxiliary will be on duty at the VFW clubroom, 5955 Lincoln avenue, to pass out forms and aid in filling them out. The clubroom will be open until 9 each evening, beginning next Thursday.

Cypress People Win Fair Awards

Robert Van Dyke and Mrs. Ruth Lockman, both of Cypress, walked away with honors at the Orange county fair in Santa Ana last week.

Van Dyke entered a heifer and young steer, each of which took a first place in its class. The young owner garnered sixth in showmanship. The heifer is an old hand at fairs, having won several awards in previous showings.

In hooked rug artistry, Mrs. Lockman brought home a first and third place ribbon as reward for her hard work. Her sister, Mrs. Laura Pui, of Riverside, took the second place honor in hooked rugs.

SUSAN BEASON HAS THIRTEEN GUESTS

Susan Beason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl T. Beason, 3621 Belmont street, celebrated her third birthday last week with thirteen guests in attendance.

Present at the affair were Michael, Dick and Mrs. Les Brannan, Peggy June and Mrs. G. Gamble, Shirley Robinson, Sharon, Patty Kay and Mrs. G. Marshall, Jilinda and Mrs. Benny Pugh and Jimmy Beason.

PLAN NEW DAIRIES FOR CYPRESS AREA

Garret Plantinga reports that he is working for contractor Robert Lee, who is currently planning to build four new dairies in this area for clients whose names are not available at present.

Each one will have approximately 60 stalls apiece, says Plantinga, with two being built at Orange and Miller and two on Denni road.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Most of us have a Jekyll and Hyde personality in the matter of traffic safety. As motorists, we too often tend to regard pedestrians as natural enemies. But after we've parked our car at the curb, we glare and fume at every motorist who dare approach the intersection we propose to cross on foot.

In the clash between pedestrians and motorists, pedestrians, according to a study completed by the National Safety Council, are more often at fault than not. Of people killed or injured while walking, sixty-five per cent, the Council found, either take unwise chances or actually violate traffic regulations.

But whether right or wrong, the pedestrian has little chance against an auto. In Oakland last week, a grandson of General Vallejo was killed crossing the street, and in Atlanta, Georgia, Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind," died of injuries after being struck by an auto at an intersection. In neither of these tragic cases, apparently, was the pedestrian at fault. The drivers of both death cars had long records of citations for traffic violations.

But for the pedestrian caught before an onrushing car, it's an academic question whether he or the motorist is at fault. Regardless of where the statisticians pin the blame, it's the wise pedestrian who watches his step.

"FREE" LABOR

The recent evidence presented by the British of a forced labor system in Russia did not occasion much surprise. For some time the world seems to have been pretty well convinced that such a system existed. But what apparently is not so widely recognized is that compulsion also extends to the so-called free labor market of Russia. The mass of workers are not free to choose either the place or the type of their employment. These are determined by a government commission. If a man doesn't like the job assigned to him he CAN leave it — and go to jail. Or he can lay off or be late. But absence from the job — and being 20 minutes late constitutes absence — subjects a worker to as much as six months at "corrective" labor and a reduction in wages up to 25 per cent. Young people are drafted into industries according to the need for workers in those industries. It is reliably estimated that fully half the apprentices in industrial training schools are not there of their own accord. Of course, comrades, you understand that all the foregoing is just propaganda — vicious lies — created in capitalistic countries where "freedom" such as exists in Russia is unknown.

BABY, IT'S HOT OUTSIDE

No doubt General Vaughan would like to crawl into one of those deep freeze units until the weather — and congressional tempers — drop about 40 degrees. Incidentally, there is no truth to the report that congressmen are serenading him with "Freeze A Jolly Good Fellow."

HOW THAT CUB GROWS!

I RISE TO REMARK

by John Phillips

You know, if you want to appreciate this country, you don't even have to leave it; you can just talk about leaving it for a short time. The Capitol doctor tells you to get all sorts of inoculations, depending on the countries you expect to visit, and he gives you various pills and powders for the conditions you'll have to meet. The bank looks up, for you, regulations about the money you may have with you, of the countries you visit. You'd better take soap and toilet paper, and this and that, you're told. It won't be the same there, is the unanimous opinion.

Well, why won't it be the same? Is there some magic, that in America people can travel around, when and where they want? And cross state lines, farther apart than national lines abroad, without emptying their pockets and displaying the money they have? And not worry about the water, and the milk, and the sanitation? And buy soap and toilet paper, and a thousand other things the people abroad never had, and some of them never saw?

Most Goods

The United States has 7% of the world's population; but we have, on recent figures, 86% of the refrigerators; 83% of all the automobiles; 81% of the bathtubs; 79% of the radios; 76% of the vacuum cleaners, and 78½% of the insurance, but I don't know if that is face values, or the number of insured, probably both.

So, I was interested in a statement the VFW put out a little while back. About Russia. Fine nation, Russia, according to all the red-hots, who want us to copy the comrades, just so those red-promoters don't have to go back and live there themselves. The VFW figured out how long the comrades had to work, in the USSR to get a few simple items.

For a pack of cigarettes the average employee would work 9 minutes in the U. S. (less, according to me) and in Russia, he'd work over 2 hours. For a quart of milk, he'd work here 10 minutes, and in Russia 1 hour and 18 minutes, with the germs thrown in, no charge. For a pair of shoes, the comrade works 13 days compared to the American worker's 1 day, and I can certify, for observation on the spot, that shoes are scarce, and of inferior quality. Three hours would get

Travelogue

by James C. Duncan

Two days after leaving Colombo we arrived in Bombay. After tying up to the dock practically everyone went ashore. It was extremely warm, so Lenny and I and some of the other crew members went out to Breach Candy to have a swim.

Breach Candy is a large European hotel. The reason it is called European is that it caters only to white people. The hotel has two large swimming pools, one indoors and the other outside. We used the outside pool to swim in. There was quite a large crowd when we arrived. Mostly English sailors whose ships were in Bombay for awhile. During our stay, we went out to Breach Candy practically every afternoon to take a dip.

In the mornings, Lenny and I would go ashore to take pictures as it was cooler then than in the afternoon. To get about the city we hired a galey. A galey is a wagon much like a surrey but with no fringe on top. These are drawn by small thin horses. A galey is the most popular and cheapest mode of transportation in the city. Of course, there are also streetcars, busses and taxis.

Riding about the city, we came to the post office where we stopped to mail some letters we had written during our time at sea. The post office is a huge building and inside one would think half of Bombay's people were mailing letters as it was so crowded. Lenny and I found a line in front of a window which was selling stamps. After a wait which seemed like an hour, we stepped up to the window. Our letters were weighed then the clerk told us the amount it would cost to send each letter air mail to the States. It came to seventy-five cents per letter.

From the post office we went back uptown and came upon the railroad station. It is a huge stone building with ugly gargoyles sticking out from every corner. From the station we went to the Hanging Gardens. It is a terraced garden on top of a large reservoir. Beautiful lawns lay like vast green carpets tacked here and there with trees and shrubs. All of the shrubs are trimmed to shape animals. There you a shirt in America; 2 months in the workers' Paradise. A winter coat would take 25 weeks work, and they'd be limited to the bureaucrats (oh, they have them there, too) as against 75 hours here. A car? Brother, 40 weeks in the U. S.; you should live so long in the USSR.

Send 'em Over

I rise to remark that it might be a good idea to send some of the fellow-travelers over there for a time. It might be worth the cost. The trouble is, they know it now — they simply want to take over the U. S. from the inside, and if you watch the trend of legislation, you sometimes wonder if they are not getting away with it.

I think it's about time for us to stand up and say America is the strong country, the free country, with the know-how, and the opportunity, and it's our country — not Russia.

are elephants, lions, seals, birds,
fish, giraffes and monkeys.
From the gardens we went to the Hindu Burning Ghat. As we arrived a family came in bearing one of its members. He was covered completely except for his face with thousands of brilliant flowers. The family placed the body on a pile of wood stacked between four metal poles placed six feet by three.

After the body is placed on the stack, each member of the family carried a small log from a pile and placed it on top of the body. After they had all placed their logs on the body they stepped back and the Hindu priest completed covering the body with more small logs. After mumbling something in his native tongue he set fire to the wood.
It was at this point that Lenny and I decided to leave. A high wooden fence surrounds the ghat and as we walked out I glanced up and there sitting along the top of the fence were several large vultures.

From the ghat we returned to the ship. As we walked along the docks toward the gangplank, an Indian snake charmer hailed us and asked if we wanted to see a mongoose and snake fight.
Seeing the possibilities of getting some good pictures I agreed.
After giving the charmer fifteen rupees, which is approximately five dollars, he brought forth a mongoose from a cloth bag. A mongoose looks very much like an opossum. He then reached into a basket and brought out a four foot snake which he dropped on the ground.

The snake went immediately into a striking position. As the mongoose made a leap towards it, it struck as fast as lightning, but the mongoose was ready and it grabbed the snake just behind the head before it could recover. The snake wrapped its coils about the mongoose, but with quick light steps it easily slipped through them. All the while the snake was trying to coil about the mongoose it was chewing on its neck. Suddenly the snake went limp then coiled and uncoiled convulsively. The

NORTON VISITS FRANCE

The French Riviera was one of the stops of Robert N. Norton, boilerman first class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, 5701 Vonnie Lane, on his current cruise with the navy.

charmer reached down and picked it up with the mongoose still hanging on and dropped the mongoose back into his bag then pulled the snake out.

Next the charmer set before him a small round wicker basket then he reached into the folds of his robe and produced a flute made of a gourd.

Squatting down in front of the basket he started playing a weird melody. With his hand he flipped back the lid of the basket and from it rose a huge Indian cobra with its head spread wide.

All the while this was going on, I was taking pictures. I was trying to get close enough to get a good close-up of the snake when suddenly it decided to make a break for freedom. It turned my way and slid out of the basket. I was trying to keep it in view when my camera ran down and stopped. When I took the camera from my eye I practically leaped straight back for I wasn't more than two or three feet from the cobra. The charmer caught it, however, before it could get far and put it back in the basket.

The pictures I got of the fight and the cobra are the best ones out of all the one I took.

We stayed in Bombay three days and then sailed for the Suez Canal.
